

May I learn that all I have was all you ever wanted.

Not my performance so that you would notice me.

*Not my striving so I can have worth.
Not my exhaustion so my life can be more than rest.*

*Not the answers I think you want to hear.
Just me.*

Just me is enough for you.

Whether it be little, or much may I always put what's in my hand in yours, and trust that it will go further.

May I put my finances in your hand, Knowing sparrows pay for nothing and you love us more.

May I put my marriage in your hand, Knowing that I can't fully see you without looking at her.

*May I put my children in your hand, Knowing they'll show the entire world
what Jesus looks like.*

Even though they have my own face.

*May I put my ministry in your hand,
Knowing it was never really mine.*

Lord may I not see being in your hand as a set back, but as a set up for the miraculous.

May my life be as 2 fish and 5 loaves.

And may I realize not enough is more than enough in the hands of you.
